WOMAN'S CLUB GIVES BIRTHDAY LUNCHEON; COE PLAYERS APPEAR

Two delightful plays were given by members of the Coe college faculty after the annual Indian Luncheon of the Woman's club today in the Colonial room of the Hotel Montrose. The Pioneer celebrated the twenty-fourth birthday of the club's existence in this city.

The modern viewpoint of marriage in contrast to old days was brought out in the playlet, "Distinguished Service," written by Florence Clay Knox, former president of this club.

Lillian Kiesaeger gave a skillful portrayal of the attractive young woman, an squirrel in the pedestal of old fashion respectability. Kate Beach took the part of the wife with the ultra modern dress who has a craving for honeymoons and society gossip. The maid was played by Bernadine Wagner.

"Evening Dress Indispensible" is a consensical playlet which deals with the predicaments which often result from a too pronounced effort to develop self expression. The young daughter played by Blanche Loomis leaves her conservative semi flapperish ways to devote herself entirely to bringing out her own individuality in art and in personality. The results entangle her widowed mother with her lover herself and her own lover.

Charles Ely took the part of the young man who still loves She in spite of her developed personality. The part of the older man was taken by John Miller. Mary Crowe gave a clever interpretation of the part of the mother who wants her daughter to be natural and who is willing to assume a special role to help her do it. Ruth McConkle was the maid.

Between the two plays Milton Gellens a student at Washington high school played "Souvenir" and "The Herd Girl's Dream" on the violin. His accompaniment was played by Ethelyn Greenblatt a student at Coe college.

The plays were directed by Miss Laura Pearl Stewart and Miss Ina Hibbard.

Luncheon was served to more than three hundred members of the club. One large table was placed in the hall room surrounded by quartet tables. Extra places were arranged in the other dining rooms. Calendulas and yellow tapers were used in the table decorations.

Mrs. F. C. Kellogg, president of the club, gave a few words of greeting. The affair was arranged by the committee of the social and program committee, under the direction of Mrs. C. D. Fillmore. It is composed of the ladies, F. D. Matson, L. B. Washburn, F. E. Hoyt, D. A. Horne, W. F. Schaeck, Joth, E. D. Morrison, T. Turpin, O. E. Dickeson, F. L. Foster, R. A. Greenawalt, W. I. Thompson, I. THE GAZETTE'S COOK BOOK

By Jane Winter Lighter

BAKED APPLES.

Probably no one fruit lends itself to serving in more varied ways than does the apple. Baking apples provide one of the most popular ways of serving the fruit, and for good reason, for they are suitable for breakfast, luncheon or dinner and when attractively served never fail to make an appeal.

The appearance of the finished dish depends primarily on the apple selected for use. Whatever way they are baked they should be firm in texture, tart and highly flavored and if they are to be baked with the skins on they should be of a bright red variety, such as Kings, Spitzbergens.

Select then large firm red apples, core and pare them about one third of the way down from the stem end. Place them in a casserole or any pan that can be closely covered. Pour over them a syrup made as follows: For every six apples measure one cup of sugar and one and one half cups of water and boil together for six minutes. Cover the apples closely and place in a 400 degree oven, or a low gas flame and allow them to cook until they are tender, yet firm and unbroken, basting frequently while cooking.

When cooked remove the cover and for each apple with a teaspoon of sugar and sprinkle the top of each apple with sugar. Now place the apples under the flame of the broiler or if you have no broiler at the top of a hot oven for a few minutes or until the sugar melts and gives the apples a delicate golden brown. Remove immediately and allow to cool. Chill and serve with plain cream or topped with whipped cream or meringue slightly browned in the oven.

To vary the flavor the centers may be filled with cinnamon and sugar mixed in the proportion of one fourth teaspoon of cinnamon to one half cup of sugar. Or the centers may be filled with seeded raisins or preserved ginger cut into bits and sprinkled with lemon juice.

There are some excellent recipes for baked apples served as salads, desserts and dishes which will be published in this column tomorrow.

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE BLACK KITTEN.

Once on a time, as Nurse Jane looked out of the window of the hollow stump bungalow, she saw on the front porch a lump of something black.

"Uncle Wiggily!" called the muskrat lady housekeeper to the bunny rabbit gentleman. "I wish you would take the broom and sweep that black lump of mud off the porch. I think Curly or Floppy Twistytail, one of the piggie boys, must have left the mud there while playing."

"All right, I'll sweep it off," replied Uncle Wiggily. But when, a little later, he went out with the broom, the black lump wasn't to be seen.

"Well, I suppose the piggie boys saw it and swept it off," thought the rabbit gentleman. So he put the broom back in the closet, and, after twinkling his pink nose two or three times, Uncle Wiggily started out to seek an adventure.

But, as he stepped on the front porch, there was that black lump again.

"Ho! Ho!" laughed Mr. Longears. "Curly and Floppy must have dropped more black mud on Nurse Jane's clean porch. But I'll sweep it off."

This time, when Uncle Wiggily went out with the broom, the black lump was still there. He was just going to sweep it away when the lump moved a little, and out of it looked two bright, green eyes.

"My goodness! This is strange!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "I never knew there were eyes in a lump of mud!"

Then the black lump moved a little, and from it came a sad little voice saying:

"Mew! Mew Mew!"

"Gracious sakes alive!" cried the rabbit uncle. "What is this?"

"I'm a little black kitten, that's what I am," said the mewing voice. "If you don't believe it, look at my tail!" and out of the little black ball of fur a tiny tail was trust.

"So you aren't a lump of black mud, after all?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"No," mewed the pussy. "I'm a little black kitten and I'm lost and I'm cold and I'm hungry. It looked so nice and warm on your porch that I came here to curl up into a ball and go to sleep. But when I heard Nurse Jane tell you to get the broom and sweep me off I ran away. Then when you went in with the broom I crept back and this time I slept so hard I didn't hear you come out. Are you going to sweep me away?"

"No, indeed!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "And you aren't going to be lost, or cold or hungry any more!"

With that he picked up the little black kitten and carried it into the bungalow.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily. Don't bring that black lump of mud into my clean kitchen!" cried Nurse Jane.

"Mew! Mew!" cried the pussy, and Nurse Jane was as much surprised as Uncle Wiggily had been.

"Oh, the dear little thing!" said Nurse Jane, when the black kitten looked at the muskrat lady housekeeper. "Put her down by the fire, Uncle Wiggily, and I'll give her some warm milk."

And when she had lapped up the warm milk, the black kitten curled up into a little round ball of fur again, and went to sleep. She was happy, for now she had a warm home for the winter.

And that night the Fuzzy Fox tried to get in the bungalow to nibble Uncle Wiggily's ears. But the black kitten was asleep in the kitchen. The Fox, crawling in the window, didn't see her. And all of a sudden, up sprang the black kitten and she scratched the Fox on his nose.

"Oh, somebody stuck a needle in me!" Nurse Jane must have stuck me with a needle!" howled the Fox, and he jumped out much more quickly than he had jumped in. So he didn't nibble the bunny after all.

And if the snowflake doesn't tickle the rain drop under the chin and make it fall off the edge of the cloud, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the old nest.

PRAYER FOR THE NEW YEAR.

Grant me the strength from day to day
To bear what burdens come my way,
Grant me throughout this bright New Year
More to endure and less to fear,
Help me to live that I may be
From spite and petty malice free.

Let me not bitterly complain
When cherished hopes of mine prove vain,
Or spoil with deeds of hate and rage
Some fair tomorrow's spotless page.
Lord, as the days shall come and go
In courage let me stronger grow

Let me with patience stand and wait,
A friend to all who find my gate
Keep me from envy and from scorn,
As binds the sun with every morn
On great and low, so let me give
My love to all who round me live

Lord, as the New Year dawns today
Help me to put my faults away,
Let me be big in little things,
Grant me the joy which friendship brings,
Keep me from selfishness and spite
Let me be wise in what is right.

A happy New Year! Grant that I
May cause no tear in any eye,
When this New Year in time shall end
Let it be said, I've played the friend,
Have lived and loved and labored here,
And made of it a happy year.

Squelched.

"It's a hard life," said the traffic policeman.

"What's the trouble?" asked the genial old gentleman.

"I had to call down a fashionable dame just now for violating a traffic law. The look she gave me was bad enough, but the way her poodle dog yawned in my face was positively insulting."—Smart Set

'KARNAK IS ONLY MEDICINE THAT DOES THE WORK'

Sensational New Treatment Ended Cedar Rapids Man's Troubles So quickly He Could Hardly Realize It.

Stating that Karnak lost no time in getting at the roots of his troubles and driving them out Mr. Charles Kloubec, 1544 16th Ave., Cedar Rapids, is still another of the thousands of Iowans who have experienced a happy return to good health by means of this phenomenal new treatment.

"Karnak is the only medicine I ever got hold of that does just what is claimed for it, and if my experience will help put someone else on the right road to good health also, why I'm more than glad to help out all I can," says Mr. Kloubec. "I had such a bad case of stomach trouble and indigestion that my whole system seemed to be out of order. I couldn't eat anything to speak of, and suffered from bloating, biliousness and headaches until I was just miserable. In fact, food seemed to act just like poison to my system. I was sluggish and nervous, couldn't get any restful sleep, and felt any way but right.

"Well sir, Karnak got to the roots of my troubles so quickly I could hardly realize it. Since taking three bottles I eat as heartily as anyone, am rid of the indigestion, constipation and headaches, and sleep like a top. I feel fine and fit in every way, and I can't say too strongly that Karnak deserves every bit of the praise it gets."

Try Karnak yourself! And, remember—Karnak Pills are an essential and vitally important part of the Karnak treatment, especially if constipated.

Karnak is sold in Cedar Rapids exclusively by the Horak Pharmacies, in Marion by Carl N. Owen, and the leading drug store in every town.—Advertisement
