FIRE CHIEF WARNS MOTOR CAR DRIVERS

Says Lives Of Firemen Are Endangered Most By Reckless Motorist; Close Call Saturday.

With the fire trucks being called out at frequent intervals during the cold wave, lives of the firemen are being endangered more by automobile drivers than by the hazards of fire fighting according to Chief James Kennedy

Numerous close calls have been experienced by the men it was said regardless of the fact that the drivers of the fire trucks have exercised every precaution to prevent collisions.

"Someone is going to be killed if the motorists do not obey the law which says in plain language that fire trucks have the right of way" said the chief

When a driver of a car hears the fire trucks coming he should turn in to the curb and permit the truck to pass according to the city ordinance

Chief Kennedy said that women seem to lose their head more than men when the trucks approach One woman driver shot across an intersection right in front of the hook and ladder truck Saturday and for a second only a few inches separated the woman and the firemen from serious injuries or death

"That's only one of the many close calls we have had" said the chief "Some fool drivers have tried to race the trucks I want to stress the importance of everyone driving to the curb when the fire trucks approach not only for the safety of the firemen but for their own safety"

CITY TO VOTE ON SALE OF PROPERTY

Voters at the school election next Monday will be asked to decide whether or not the school board should sell the property south of Washington high school adjoining the notorious "black belt" which the city is endeavoring to condemn

This property was acquired by the board some years ago when the enlargement of Washington high school was contemplated but the board was unsuccessful in the effort to buy the entire half block back of the school so the members deem it advisable to dispose of the present holdings

On the same ballot which will settle this question the voters will give or deny the board permission to collect $40 000 for general repairs on school buildings by additional tax levy

The other ballot which will be handed the voter at the polls will contain the names of the candidates for school board and three will be elected to fill vacancies on the board

RAREBITS

The good old rarebits, made famous by a Welsh tavern-keeper have come down to us in many and varied forms, and have lost none of their popularity. They have long been supreme as a chafing dish favorite and should be a real standby for a luncheon or a supper dish, or for a main dish of the popular meatless meal.

We are told that the first rarebits were made from full-flavored, creamy, rich cheddar cheese, which was slowly melted down, and to which was added a generous dash of good, old English ale. When this mixture became smooth and velvety, it was served, bubbling hot, on generous, crisp slices of toast.

We still have the cheddar cheese, but prohibition makes it impossible to obtain the English ale. A beverage with an ale flavor makes almost a perfect imitation. This makes it possible to serve a rarebit with the same old delicate flavor.

Into the top of a chafing dish, or a double boiler, which has been placed over the lower container filled with hot water, cut one pound of fresh American cheese in small pieces. Keep the water under the cheese just below the boiling point, so that the cheese may melt slowly. As it melts, add one-fourth teaspoon of salt, one-eighth teaspoon of pepper, one-fourth teaspoon of paprika, one-half teaspoon of dry mustard, and a few grains of cayenne pepper. More or less salt may be needed, depending on the kind of cheese used. Then stir in gradually all the prohibition beverage which the cheese will take up.—about one-half cup for each pound of cheese, though this, too, will depend on the kind of cheese used When finished, the mixture should be smooth and velvety and tender Serve on toasted, salted crackers, or crisp toast, and garnish with parsley, or stuffed olives, or gherkins

A good substitute for the prohibition beverage is made by adding to one-half cup of cold water one teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce. Stir this liquid in just as directed above

Mock Rarebit—Pile sliced, fresh cheese generously on round slices of bread. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, paprika, mustard and Worcestershire sauce Place on the broiler rack in a 400 degree oven and toast for ten minutes. Serve at once.

Equally good results may be obtained by placing the broiler rack containing the cheese rounds at the bottom of the broiling compartment leave the flame on full for about two minutes and then turn low and let cook until the cheese is melted and bubbling. Serve immediately
