Wheat Goes Higher Today

DROP IN SHIPMENTS ON WAY TO EUROPE

CHICAGO March 23 (By Associated Press) Owing largely to an unexpected decrease of the amount of wheat in ocean passage, wheat prices here scored a material advance today during the early dealings The falling off in the aggregate of wheat afloat for Europe was 8,000,000 bushels as compared with a week ago. On the other hand word that rains in Texas had broken the drought over a big section of the state tended at times to bring about considerable selling pressure on July and September deliveries of wheat representing the new domestic crop Initial prices which varied from the same as Saturday's finish to 1¼ cent higher May $1.69 to $1.69½ and July $1.45¾ were followed by advances all around interrupted by brief transient setbacks but with May reaching $1.71

Announcement of the [illegible] stocks decrease in the U S visible supply of wheat caused the wheat market to jump upward again [illegible] Wheat closed strong ¾ to 4¼c net higher May $1.69½ to $1.70 and July $1.48½ to $1.49

Corn and oats were [illegible] with shipping to [illegible] slow After opening [illegible] higher May $1.[illegible] the corn market [illegible] low Saturday's level [illegible] to show any kind of power to [illegible]

Execution of numerous stop loss sell orders on declines and the [illegible] losses led to more [illegible] corn prices later September [illegible] a new low price [illegible] May [illegible] to $1.[illegible] overnight loss of [illegible] but [illegible] then, and the market [illegible] in part Corn closed unsettled ¾c net lower May $1.1[illegible] $1.13½

Oats started at ¼c off to ¼c up May 45½ to 45¾c Later the market kept mostly [illegible] fractional decline
