

Wheat Resumes $2 Level

PORKERS ARE WEAK ON LOCAL MARKET

Hog prices are weaker on the local market following a drop of 5c on all grades. The top is at $10.20. Heavy hogs and springs quoted by 100 lbs. are slightly higher. Wholesale butter is higher. An advance of 2c was made on the two grades quoted.

The egg market is weaker due to more liberal supply.

WORLD SHIPMENTS CAUSE DEPRESSION

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—(By Associated Press.)—Wheat dropped today to within a fraction of $2 a bushel. May delivery World shipments that reached the huge total of 19,941,000 bushels for last week had a depressing effect and so too did lower quotations at Liverpool and Buenos Aires. On the other hand reports were current that the Swedish government was considering removal of the import duty both on wheat and rye. Trade here was of only moderate volume and price changes early kept within ordinary limits.

The opening, which ranged from 6 1/2c to 6 3/4c, was followed by a decline to $2.00 1/2 and July $1.69 1/2 @ 1.71. It was followed by a decline to $2.00 1/2 and July $1.69 1/2 @ 1.71. It was followed by a decline to $2.00 1/2 and July $1.69 1/2 @ 1.71.

STRICT MORAL CODE URGED BY DR. JAYNE

Assails Modern Dance And Crave For Speed; Defends Blue Laws; Self-denial Needed, He Says.

"The old laws that were sarcastically called blue laws show what a high ideal our ancestors lived up to," said Dr. A. M. Jayne at St. Paul's church Sunday. The present generation laughs at these laws. One prominent woman once wrote an article in which she said, "Once upon a time our fathers were united in defending certain rules of propriety. Now there is no moral code that is insisted on. People laugh at all morality laws. So did the people of Babylon laugh at the laws that prevailed in their city. It is not possible to erect signboards along the road of life, that is, certain roads of life, saying that at the end of this road is a precipice and that many have fallen in this precipice. I wonder if society ought not to close some roads that lead to death. More folk have been killed by automobiles than ever before. Is it because there are more automobiles? No, it is because the modern generation has no viewpoint in life and that is 'Speed'.

"Morality is a matter of life and death, a matter of convenience. A path that is pleasant in the beginning often leads to death and if that is true everyone ought to know it. Morality is not a struggle against ugly unpleasant things, but a struggle against sins that are enticing and charming. Fun, abandon—they are exquisite sometimes in their enjoyment.

"How do all the great men succeed in their special line of work? It is not by over-indulgence and dissipation, but by self-denial, and self-discipline. Those are the factors that lead to the success of man in any line of work.

"A man will say it is not anyone's business how he lives. I wonder if it isn't someone else's business if his life has a contagious disease. This disease may not hurt him, but everywhere he goes he shakes those germs from his body, exposing other folk to some dreadful disease. Immorality is precisely like this. Disease only hurts the body, but immorality destroys the body, life and soul. I do not think that we have made as much progress in high morality and discipline as we have in machinery and the conveniences of life.

"I know of no other place that these twin sins are more easily seen than in the modern dance.

"The modern dance originated in South America in Brazil there is no moral line. In Argentina there is no moral line. The dance came to this country by way of the stage. The stage frankly gives the public what it wants. If the public wanted virtuous entertainment the stage would give it, but that is 'what people want.' The stage is controlled or limited only by the police force. Virtue is exhibited when it pays, not before. You can get used to anything, but getting used to it has nothing to do with its nature."

NEW BOOKS AT Public Library

"Dogs and I" by H. E. Cox. The author deals with his personal experiences of the canine race in all its breeds and characteristics, bringing in action his long and intimate knowledge of the subject.

"The Police Dog," by D. Brockwell. A practical guide for those interested in the keeping and breeding of Police dogs and for dog lovers in general.

Oratory.
"Public Speaking for Business Men," by W. G. Hoffmann. The purpose of this book is to illustrate the principles of public speaking in the more practical and familiar type of address that prevails today.

"The Art of Public Speaking," by A. J. Beveridge. A concise statement of the principles of public speaking and a discussion in detail of the rules to be observed by those who would obtain success.

Travel.
"Seeing Canada," by J. T. Farley. For the greater satisfaction of those who plan to travel in Canada or those who desire to tour in fancy. Dr. Farley describes the glories of the Dominion—its scenery, its climate, its cities, its villages, its big game and wilderness area.

"Sweden and Its People," by I. M. McElreid. This book attempts to present the essential characteristics of the country for the benefit of the traveler who wishes to see its principal features, in a limited time.

"The French Riviera," by P. Devgluy. In the preface to this book Arnold Bennett tells us that nobody can believe the Riviera who has not seen it. The excellent illustrations of the book make its beauties most vivid.

"A Thousand Miles Through Chile," by E. C. May. This is an account of a journey through Chile, broken by many sojourns in cities and provinces, which reveals these "Yankees of the south to the Yankees of the north."

"Broken Bow" by L. A. Harker.
"David Blaine of King's" by E. F. Benson.

SECTIONAL BOOKCASES COMPLETE THIS SUN ROOM

By MARIAN MOORE.
Although the sun room pictured here is in a home a long way from the good old land of Dixie, it nevertheless has all the atmosphere of a villa in Florida or California and a wise home-builder might take a hint or two therefrom in planning the new sun-room.

THE SUN ROOM BOOKCASE. Speaking of bookcases note how beautifully these sectional units fit in under the window and how they have been given the same finish as the wall, making them appear as if they were part of the background while the books themselves stand out prominently in all their colored bindings. And the wall of rough plaster which allows the light to play over it more interestingly than it does on smooth plaster is finished in a most beautiful tone of what might be described as a bluish-greenish-gray. Such a mixture of color always is far more charming than a pure tone even when delicate and soft. In lovely contrast is the red furniture.

Where shall we go this evening?

FREQUENTLY you decide to spend the evening in town with some friend. The first part is easy. Dinner at a pleasant restaurant. But afterwards... What will you do to carry on this business of having a good time?

Easy! Three cents. An evening paper. A glance at the advertisements. Suggestion—agreement, and you're off!

You didn't go around to the different theaters, to be driven to an unsatisfactory choice by fatigue and time. If it's worth while to consult the advertisements about amusements, how much more worth while must it be when it comes to the spending of the household money.

Read the advertisements. They place before you the full choice of the trustworthy goods in the market. They describe advantages, and give you full information before you have to stir out of your chair. Pursue for every article you buy the method you use when it comes to amusements.

The way to be sure of what you buy is to buy advertised goods.

Reading advertisements is an education in better buying.

"I Read An Advertisement the Other Day--"

How many times have you heard those seven words spoken in the course of ordinary conversation!

The speaker then goes on to tell about a new invention to lighten housework—or a new table product—or a new farm implement—or a new idea in clothing—

Always something new!

Advertisements are an endless source of information—much of it directly interesting and important to you.

Read the advertisements. They tell you what is going on in the world. They tell you how you can live better. They tell you how you can live more economically.

Read the Advertisements As You Do the News Columns
