POLICEMEN FOUND TORTURED TO DEATH

Bootleggers Of Kansas City "Jungles" Suspected In Horrible Murder; Penalty Of Volstead Enforcement.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 23. — (By Universal)—Torture as horrible as any inflicted by Indians, brought death to Burt G. Lovejoy and Georgo Peters, whose bodies were found in a shallow grave here sunday. Lovejoy was a police officer, and Peters his chauffeur. They disappeared Saturday night.

Identification was only made possible when Lovejoy's star was found and later cuff links fixed the identity of Peters.

The investigation that was started "I'm the lucklest man in the mmediately after the bodies were world," said Mr. Sundberg, as in sible when Loveloy's star was found and later cutf links fixed the identity of Peters.

The scene of the crime was the "jungles" a section of the city where inconshiring is a recognized occupation; where the penalty of interference is death.

Loveloy had interfered. That, the authorities believe is why he was so crucily slain. Peters was his helper in a drive against bootleg gers that just a week ago resulted in the seizure by the two men of sixty-five galions of whisky from the sideavered.

The liquor had been buried in a hole on the ground. The bodies of Loveloy and Peters were found in the hole. A fire had been built on them. Both were badly burned. Physicians found that the feet of both men had been broken and there was evidence that they had been used to speed death that followed possibly a crow-bar. And an ax had been used to speed death that followed possibly hours of torture. Their throats were cut. A five-gallon where fire had been kindled.

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE WOODEN DOLL.

Once on a time, when Uncle Wiggily was hopping through the woods, wondering what sort of adventure he might meet, all of a sudden he saw Mrs. Twistytali, the lady pig 8he was waddling along, for she was quite fat, and she was grunting and saying to herself:

"A wooden doll is what she needs! That's the only kind she can't break! I'll get her a wooden doll!"

"For whom are you going to get a wooden doll, Mrs. Twistytali?" asked the gentleman rabbit. "Excuse me for hearing what you said, but I couldn't help it."

"That's all right," answered the lady pig "I was speaking of Baby Bunty. That's all right," answered the lady pig "I was speaking of Baby Bunty, that funny little rabbit girl. She is staying at my pen for a while, and such goings on you never saw!"

"What does she do" asked the bunny.

"You might better ask what she meeds a bunny."

"It was page the bunny pull the splinter from his paw, and then, with the wooden doll wrapped in paper, Uncle Wiggily hopped on to take the surprise to Baby Bunty asked the sunder the Bob Cat jumped out from some bushes and cried. "Hold on there, Uncle Wiggily hopped on to take the surprise to Baby Bunty as at sunder the paw, and then, with the wooden doll wrapped in paper, Uncle Wiggily hopped on to take the surprise to Baby Bunty as daven the paw, and then, with the woo
