UNUSUAL SERVICES AT ST. PAUL'S SUNDAY

Dedication Of The Church To Youth And Twilight Recital Are Attractive.

Two unusual services marked the day at St. Paul's Methodist church Sunday, the first a service of dedication at the church of youth at 10 a. m., the second a twilight recital with Mrs. Mary Preston Beaven as soprano soloist.

An impressive symbolism featured the church of youth dedication, especially for girls, the first of a series of special services to be given each Sunday from now until Easter, alternating for girls and boys. Parents are invited to attend them.

As the lights were turned on and the congregation of boys and girls sat in reverent silence, a candle bearer dressed in flowing white robes, appeared and lighted the candles at either side of the small white altar, above which was erected a cross of gold.

One by one, came eight girls, dressed in white, knelt and on this altar placed their offerings to be dedicated music symbolized by a violin, a rose, representing beauty, a ball for play and a woven basket for work, a rolled diploma for education, a red cross patch for service, a flag for patriotism and a cross for sacrifice. Mrs. Ruth Ebling Massey, with Mrs. J. B. Graham at the organ, sang during the service.

Dr. A. M. Jayne, the pastor, in his message to the boys and girls spoke of the meaning of dedication, to home, to school, to work, to friends, and asked for the dedication of their lives to Christ, as the best offering. Afterward girls who had made or who would make such dedication of their lives were asked to stand.

Music by the Aeolian girls' glee club of the church was another feature of the service.

The twilight recital at 6 o'clock was given by Mrs. Beaven, soprano, Bertha Tupper, accompanist, Mary Graham, organist, and Nellie Richardson, violinist.

Groups of Old English songs, German songs, Negro spirituals, and American songs lent wide variety and appeal to the program. "The Arie," "Jerusalem," "Thou that Killest the Prophet" from St. Paul, by Mendelssohn, opened the program. The last number was the Ave Maria (Bach, Gounod) with violin obbligato.

dino, new secretary of agriculture, settles into the harness.

What makes the item interesting is the fact that Taylor is the man who is credited with having written the Dickinson co-operative marketing bill, while Brand is the reputed author of the McNary-Haugen export corporation bill. Each of these bills is considered only a means of temporary farm relief, and there is much doubt as to whether either bill, if enacted, would effect any relief whatsoever.

Mr. Jardine is one of that group who feels that prosperity is not so much a matter of law as of sound economics. He is said to be against bootstrap legislation, and for that reason his induction into office has not been too enthusiastically acclaimed by the agricultural interests. If Taylor and Brand both are removed Mr. Jardine will be disclosing his hand early in the game.

Mrs. Mary Ann Harris Saw Pioneer Life In Minnesota And Iowa; Long Resi- dent Of Linn County.

Mrs. Mary Ann Harris, 83 years old, one of the best known pioneer women of Marion, died at her home, 740 Seventh avenue, in that city, at 3:45 p. m. Sunday. Mrs. Harris was the mother of Mrs. Julius E. Ives of Cedar Rapids.

Her death followed a long illness. For many months, after an injury suffered in a fall, she was confined to a wheel chair before she became bed-ridden.

She was born in Joliet, Ill., July 6, 1842. When she was 12 years old, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Howard, moved to a site which is now a part of the city of Chicago. It was then but a small village and was called "Howard's Grove." Her parents, after working better farming land, moved to Minnesota, settling near Red Wing. In that vicinity he built one of the first sawmills in the state.

Later the family moved to Decatur, and then to a work in Howard met and was married, on July 2, 1861, to William Henry Harris, a New Englander. They lived near Decatur until 1865, when they moved to Linn county on a farm five miles north of Marion. Mrs. Harris died Feb. 21, 1897, and soon afterward Mrs. Harris moved to Marion and into the home where she died.

The old type of pioneer woman, cheerful, determined and uncomplaining, was represented in Mrs. Harris. Though several times the victim of accident in her later years, once suffering a fractured hip, her constitution, as well as her courage and optimism enabled her to fight her way back to health.

She joined the Methodist church in her early girlhood and was a faithful member of the church in its various activities. Her home was particularly hospitable and always was open to the many friends who frequented it and who valued its association with her.

She is survived by the following children: Mrs. Julius E. Ives of Cedar Rapids; Mrs. Harley McClellan of near Marion, Frank of Kansas City, Robert of Lubbock, A. Kammeyer, Mrs. Emma Burmeister, Joseph Sadowsky, Jr., Warren Lessing.

A sad coincidence is that death has twice entered the Harley McClellan home within the last week. The death of Mr. McClellan's mother, Mrs. Alice McClellan, occurred last week, and the funeral was conducted Saturday.

The funeral will be held at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Marion Methodist church with the Rev. Earle A. Baker in charge. Burial will be made in Oakshade.

Light Vote Cast This Morning In School Election

A rush to the polls this afternoon will be necessary if the number of votes cast in today's school election is to equal the record of 5,100 ballots last year.

Reports received that not more than 1,500 votes were cast up to 1 p. m. today in the first six hours the polls were open. The heaviest voting is always in the afternoon, however, particularly close at the latter hour and returns will be made to the board of education office as soon thereafter as the counting is completed.

Reports received from several of the seventeen school precincts indicated that at 1 o'clock from 40 to 134 ballots had been cast in each precinct.

Three members of the board of education will be elected today from a field of the following nine candidates: E. H. Moore, J. E. Johnson, Kenneth Lindsay, Frank Kanak, May Robert, J. Lubbock, A. Kammeyer, Mrs. Emma Burmeister, Joseph Sadowsky, Jr., Warren Lessing.

The importance of economy in handling school money, of new senior high schools have been stressed in the campaign. Friends of the candidates were busy Saturday and Sunday.

Besides electing three directors, the voters will decide whether the school board shall sell property owned by the school district in Fifth avenue, south of Washington high school, and whether an expenditure of $40,000 shall be authorized for general repairs.

An ordinance establishing a public playground and recreation system, creating a playground commission, in conformance with the action of the voters March 27, 1924, was passed at its first and second readings by the council today after which it was placed on file.

The commission is to consist of five members to be named by Mayor J. P. Rall with the approval of the council. All powers of the council in relation to equipment and maintenance, as well as conduct of the public playgrounds, are to be vested in this commission which shall appoint a supervisor of recreation and as many assistants as considered necessary. Members of the commission are to serve without pay but may be allowed expenses. Appointments will be made after the ordinance goes into effect.

In addition to its own organization of a chairman, vice-chairman and secretary, the commission will have the services of the city treasurer as treasurer since the playground fund as provided by the council will be administered by the recreation board.

Dr. Mayo Believes Control Of Cancer Is Soon Possible

PHILADELPHIA, March 9.—(By Associated Press.)—Dr. Charles Mayo of Rochester, Minn., one of the country's leading surgeons, told the Philadelphia Forum in an address last night that he believed cancer would be "under control" within a few years.

By this, Dr. Mayo said he did not mean that cancer would be cured nor that it would be preventable, but that it would be more amenable to treatment and that its working would neither be so rapid nor so serious. He based this belief, he said, on the theory that cancer is caused by an organism, perhaps by a germ, and on the Wasserman test through which it is said the presence of cancer may be detected.

Dr. Mayo said the Wasserman test must be conducted by test information from Berlin where the test was announced, indicated it was practical.

NEW SPEED COP ON THE JOB IN MARION

Marion has a new speed cop! This fact was made known with a shock to motorists Saturday night and Sunday and today several of them voiced loud complaints.

A Keokuk girl visiting in a Cedar Rapids home was one of those stopped by the "cop." This is her story as related through her hostess.

The girl in company of a Coe college student, was taking a Sunday couple home Saturday night, when, within the confines of the town, she was told to stop by a man on a motorcycle who wanted to know off-hand why she was driving so fast.

The alleged motorcycle policeman did not show a star or other badge of authority, did not give the motorist a tag or other summons, but did try to get her to give him $10 as an appearance bond, according to the story. The girl did not have the money, and with her companions, demurred at such a request from one whose authority to stop them had not been made plain.

Then the "traffic cop" fixed an admiring eye on the automobile, a high class make, and is said to have made a remark that he might take the car if she could not pay a $10 bond. In the excitement, she did not remember where he told her to report, but thinks the time was to report, this afternoon. Later it was learned that Mayor A. E. Crew holds court in the afternoons when necessary.

From Sheriff Thomas Avery it was learned that the new speed cop is a Mr. Neuenkirch, supposedly appointed Saturday by Mayor Crew. The latter could not be reached this forenoon to obtain a statement.

The sheriff also vouched for the report that he had been awakened at 2:30 a. m. Sunday when the new speed cop brought four persons to the sheriff's office and asked that one of the men be locked up on a charge of driving while intoxicated. The sheriff declared the man did not appear intoxicated and he advised the cop to take the name of the man and the name of the car and let him go. The motorcycle John Law decided to take this advice.
