have, you won't ask where we are going. You will just pack your bag and come along.

Don't take a trunk if you can help it. Trunks are a peculiarly polsonous nuisance in Europe. They ruin your disposition, lose trains for you, cause you tears, misery and despair. A trunk in Europe does not go smoothly and mysteriously sailing along with you, cared for by someone else, being put off at the proper destination by amiable though Sandowish roustabouts and costing you, nothing beyond your ordinary railway ticket.

A trunk in Europe must be weighed and paid and is usually delayed, relayed, assayed.

We used to lug along steamer rugs too. Nowaday's you rent them on the boat along with your deck chair. In midwinter you sit out ondeek comparatively little anyhow. When you are outdoors, you walk. That is, if you can. When the ship pitches you learn to hold yourself slantwise as the stewards do and still keep equilibrium.

We shall now go to the passport. Office and struggie with the blanks as impertinent questions. We give our age.

I remember once, getting a passport in the days when it was harder han, now, and after giving my right, that shi meeting the proposed from an investigatory trip to the Bureau of Vital Statistics and said.

"Madam, I find that in those days it was not required for physicians to record the births. We have no record of yours. You can simply make affidavit."

Having affirmed and declared that whe had been duly born, I then begged for the blank-form contains to record the births. We have no required for physicians to record the births. We have no required for physicians to record the births. We have no required for physicians to record the births. We have no required for physicians to record the births. We have no required for physicians to record the births. We have no required for physicians to record the births. We have no required for physicians t

COME on a journey—you and f.

If you have a spirit of adventure, which I take it you have, you won't ask where we are going. You will just pack your bag and come along.

Don't take a trunk if you can help a peculiarly poison.

The appendix ruin is the companies of the pier in a welter of taxis and sleek motor cars, of voyagers and right.
