Mothers Of Movie Stars Meet At KFI Broadcast

LOS ANGELES, Calif., May 18 .-"Won't you introduce me to Mary Pickford's mother?" asked Harold Lloyd's mother, which pardonably amazed II. Then he found that neither the mother of Mary, Jack, Charlotte, and Lottle, nor the mother of Harold, knew the mother of Lieutenant "Smiling" Jack Harding of the World Flight The three mothers thus met before the microphone on the occasion of their radio debut and their first speech in public, "We suppose we have all three been so busy at our mothering that we never had time to become acquainted," the three smiling mothers agreed.

Program Of Variety At

A program of variety and quality is that arranged for tomorrow evening between the hours of 7 and 8 at WJAM.

when KFI planned its Mother's Day program, it thought it only fitting that some mother be asked to speak, and was fortunate to have Mrs. Charlotte Pickford, Mrs. Roberta Charles Harding and Mrs. Elizabeth Lloyd Smith agree to come before the microphone to tell the vast radio public what a privilege mother hood has been to them.

Many people called the studio by long distance telephone to express their appreciation. As one listening mother expressed it, "Like Judy O'-Grady and the Colonel's Lady, these famous mothers and the unknown and unsung mothers throughout the land, are sisters under the skin. Thanks to KFI for bringing their inspired messages to us."

worse If a woman wants to inconvenience herself with a super-abundance of ornate paraphernalia in her sleeping room, that is her own business, but when she is planning her guest room, she should remember that the future occupants will represent both young and old of both sexes and that plenty of conveniences should be installed into a furnishing scheme of unquestioned good taste, but that the little "fancies" that please only her own heart had best be omitted.

In the guest bedroom pictured, restraint has been the keynote, but the room itself is a model of virtues, the room itself is a model of virtues, as it can suit a great variety of natures and stations of life and is also beautiful. There are twin beds, of course, a chifforette with a small mirror atop—all ready for the occasional man guest who can be certain of not finding his host's best dress shirts occupying the drawers below. And there is a vanity with double chests of drawers on either side, bound to please the woman guest who wants to unpack all her little 'necessaries' to keep them in better order and to find them the more easily more easily
