More than 1,150 students constituting one of the largest classes in the history of the University of Iowa, will receive degrees and certificates at the university's annual commencement exercises June 9. President Walter A. Dill will award the diplomas at an open-air program which will be held in accordance with the annual tradition, beneath the campus elms. The commencement speaker will be President W. O. Thompson of Ohio State university. Dean Charles Reynolds Brown of the Yale Divinity school, who received his B. A. degree from the University of Iowa in 1883 and his M. A. degree three years later, has been called back to his alma mater this year to give the baccalaureate address June 7. This address, which will be given at 4 p. m. and President Thompson's address at the commencement exercises on June 9 at 9 a. m., will be broadcast by WSUI, the university's radio station. A sacred concert by the university band will complete the baccalaureate program. Commencement week officially starts June 5 with a recital of the school of music. Dr. O. B. Van Doren's university band of 70 pieces will give its first of a half dozen commencement concerts June 6. Graduates in more than 25 classes will have their alumni reunions June 8. Staff and Circle, senior women's honorary society, will hold its annual breakfast for alumni. The big event of the day will be the alumni luncheon and business meeting at noon. All Set.
