Every housewife of today commands a retinue of servants Modern industry places them at her disposal. Many services, which in the past meant early rising and back-breaking toil for the women of the household, are today performed deftly and unobtrusively by the inventions of modern science.

Like her grandmother, the woman of today wishes to know something about the servants she employs. She prefers to have them vouched for by some responsible person. So when the manufacturer comes out squarely and advertises his vacuum cleaners, kitchen cabinets, washing machines, electric irons or gas stoves, she knows that he is standing behind his product. She can feel that her confidence in the honest service of his goods will not be abused.

That's why it pays you to read the advertisements. Through advertising you learn not only what is good, but what is trustworthy.

An Advertisement is more than a reference—it is a certified check of satisfaction.
