

FRONTIER PARK IS CROWDED ON SUNDAY

Thousands Visit Place Where Big Roundup Is To Be Held Second Week In July

Amid gasps of astonishment at the magnitude of the undertaking, hundreds of Cedar Rapids persons visited the new "Frontier Park" yesterday where the big Frontier Days celebration will be held here July 7 to 11.

Although it was Sunday the big army of horses and men who had been at work leveling off the road which is to run through the middle of the ground, was working at top speed.

The central object of curiosity among the visitors is the grand stand. A skeleton of the first section is already in the air. At its highest end it towers forty feet, almost as high as a four-story building. When completed it will be 600 feet long and will seat 10,000 persons. The structure is being made of steel and permanent. Ten inch planks are used for seating, the adequate space is being made for foot rests, and provision later for back rests. Each row of seats rises one foot above the one in front. Every seat in the stand will have a fine view of the entire race track and arena.

The road referred to above is to extend from the South Sixth street road through the middle of the tract to the interurban line. It will be wide enough for the heaviest traffic, graded, drained and gravelled. It will form a part of the highway, where concessions and other stands border it at the west end. At each end two towers will form an auspicious entrance, one for the automobiles and the other for the pedestrians alighting from the interurban cars.

Big Force on Job.
A total of 150 men and twenty-one teams are in action today, and seventy-five more men and an excavator from Waterloo are expected to be in action in a day or two. The excavator will be used to grade the half mile race track west of the present no special resurfacing will be used on the track, although it is planned later to make it usable for harness and automobile racing.

As soon as possible the work will begin on the barns which will house the trained horses which will compete. For this purpose stables extending 1,000 feet long, 160 stalls in all, will be built at the west end of the site, parallel to the interurban track. An order has been placed for one and one half miles of sturdy wire fence, similar to that surrounding the city race track, and the estimated cost of this item alone amounts to $10,000.

For the parking of automobiles, space will be provided at the end of the park, where the automobile and caretakers placed there to guide motorists. It is estimated that 5,000 machines can be handled in one hour by the system to be used. A total of sixty ticket takers and policemen will be employed for the week of the contest.

Provision will be made at the south of the lot, the site of the famous picnic grounds near Prairie Creek, for campers. Swimming is available in the creek, and the shade of the trees along the bank is ideal for an outing ground.

The North Western railroad has notified Operating Manager M. J. Tusk that it will widen the two road crossings leading to the park, and that it will place watchmen there during the celebration.

Engineer H. R. Green is supervising the layout of the grounds, and Leonard Stark, of the Theodore Stark and Son Construction company, the building of the grand stand.

The most direct route to the grounds is by using the South Sixth street west of the road. However, many prefer to take Primary 11-40 out of J street west, to the little white school house south of Prairie creek, west a quarter of a mile, and north to the grounds.

MAYNARD GIRL MAY BE HERE, MOTHER THINKS

Is Lillian Teepe, 16, of Maynard, in Cedar Rapids?
Police here have been asked to help find her. She left her home about two weeks ago and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Teepe, believe she came to this city, according to the message received by the police from Henry Teepe, the girl's uncle.

Lillian was downtown in Maynard with her mother one day when she said she wanted to mail a letter and would go to the post office, joining her mother later. She has not been seen since.

The girl is described as having blue eyes and dark brown hair.

WILLIE WILLIS

OPPOSITES ATTRACT EVEN IN THIS CASE

BY THE DOLL LADY.
"Opposites attract," they say, and maybe that's why little light haired La Verna Mae Drapela selected this beautiful brunette doll, which she has named "Ariene."

La Verna is five years old. She lives at 911 South Sixth street. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. A. Drapela, and her father is manager of a grocery store at 723 Eighth avenue.

La Verna is one of many little Cedar Rapids girls who have adopted my walking and talking, singing and praying dolls. I will let you hold one and play with it any time you come to see me at the office of The Evening Gazette. It will be easy for you to have one of your own, if you will let me tell you how.

Guests From China.
Mr. and Mrs. B. Smith, who are on leave in the United States from the Y. M. C. A. service in China, are guests at the home of Mayor and Mrs. J. F. Rall, 109 North Seventeenth street. Mr. Smith is a graduate of Coe college and they will attend the Coe commencement events while here.

Kidd Wins Honors.
Claude L. Kidd, 126 Fifth avenue, who was graduated this week from the Wentworth Military academy at Lexington, Mo., ranked second in scholarship in a class of sixty-two. He had an average grade for the year of 92. Kidd entered the school last fall as a senior. He is planning to enter the University of Iowa next fall.

Two Hurt In Accident.
Arthur Cain, 831 B avenue, suffered a gash in his head, and Mrs. Cain was bruised when the automobile in which she was driving swerved from the road and ran into a bank in front of South Sixth street. Red Ball delivered Saturday evening. Mr. Cain was thrown through the windshield. Several stitches had to be taken in his head. Their son Dean who was with them was not hurt.

Discuss Special Camp.

Attend Yeomen Convention.
Ed Furrow and J. D. Wardle left last night for New York City to attend a national convention of the Brotherhood of Yeomen. It is understood that the selection of a site for a home will be chosen at this meeting. The local men went to urge the Cedar Rapids-Iowa City grounds for consideration. It is not known what spot is most favored by the national officers, but it is expected that many cities offering sites will send representatives.

Legion Meeting Tuesday Night.
American Legion delegates to the meeting called for selection of the memorial building will handle the June meeting of Hanford post to be held at the South Side Commercial club tomorrow evening. This will be the principal business of the Legion session, and the entertainment committee will see that the rest of the time is well filled.

Mount Vernon Man Injured.
Bruce Bellows, 17, of Mount Vernon, was brought to St. Luke's hospital at 11 a. m. today, suffering of serious internal injuries, the result of being caught between two automobile trucks at Mount Vernon this morning. He was struck in the abdomen. The only detail of the accident learned at the hospital was that Bellows was standing at the side of a parked truck when the other car hit it.

Warning Against Solicitor.
Police Chief Benesh received a letter from S. H. McConnell, assistant subscription manager of the Smart Set magazine, warning folk against fraudulent solicitation for the magazine. McConnell says that a man using the name of Larry Coyle has been reported as soliciting subscriptions under an offer of the magazine for eight months at $1. No such offer is authorized and the magazine has no man named Coyle in its employ, the letter says.

Hot Weather Drunks Nabbed.
Torrid temperatures Saturday and Sunday resulted in as many arrests from intoxication as for traffic violations. J. L. Carr, J. Finney, John Nichols and Arthur Robinson were brought in Saturday after they had imbibed too freely, and James Foghes was hauled in last night. Each was fined $10 in court today. Traffic violators were E. N. Wernholt and A. M. Chalmers, fined $5 each; E. M. Foster, fined $10 for speeding and L. F. Benesh, fined $2.

Radio Set Stolen.
Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Burge, living one and one-half miles south of Mount Vernon, returned home from a ride last evening to find that their house had been pillaged and a five-tube Colin B. Kennedy radio set had been stolen.

Mr. Burge telephoned Sheriff Tom Avery last night at 10 o'clock. He had not made an inventory of the stolen articles but believed the radio set was the biggest loss. Deputy Sheriff Roy Radebaugh was sent there this morning to investigate. No clues were found.

Stolen Car Found.
A Ford roadster belonging to the Emerson Music company, stolen yesterday, was reported to the police this morning as found in front of 1802 Washington avenue. Police are still looking for the Ford touring car of N. D. Ester, 1401 Wildwood drive, stolen Saturday evening.

LOCAL LODGES PAY TRIBUTE TO DEAD

Hundreds of Cedar Rapids lodge members paid tribute to their dead Sunday when memorial services were conducted at local cemeteries.

The Knights of Pythias, Star of the West lodge No. 1, held services at Oak Hill cemetery near the grave of the Rev. Henry P. Milligan at 4 p. m. The ritual was in charge of officers of the lodge, and the Rev. J. S. Lilley gave the address. The Star of the West band and the De Molay quartet assisted.

The procession started from Castle hall and marched to the cemetery, headed by the band. Graves were decorated by a committee in the morning.

It is estimated that 3,000 persons visited the Bohemian National cemetery where services were in charge of the Bohemian societies. At a stand erected in the west section of the cemetery, a program was held, beginning at 2 p. m.

Thomas Suchomel, head of the cemetery committee, opened the program. Otto T. Bergier of Chicago, national head of the C. S. P. S. lodges, gave the principal address. J. J. Hajek of the Free Thought society spoke the eulogy of the Bohemian school song.

Dr. A. L. Murray, editorial writer for The Evening Gazette, was the speaker at memorial services conducted by Cedar Rapids chapter No. 515, Mooseheart Legion. These were held at the grave of Mrs. Julia K. Havlik, first regent of the chapter, in the Bohemian National cemetery. Mrs. W. H. Clifford, regent, presided. Officers and members of the drill team took part. Several hundred Moose and Legionnaires attended.

Dr. Murray emphasized the fact that while people may unite because of family, church or national ties, that unity which is based on the more regard for fraternal principles, among those of different races, creeds, business pursuits and temperaments, represents a true breaking down of traditional prejudices.

THREE BADLY HURT IN MAQUOKETA CRASH

Special To The Gazette.
MAQUOKETA, June 8.—Dale Tubbs, auto mechanic is in a critical condition in City Memorial hospital here. John Ellis, assistant cashier of the First National bank, is badly hurt and bruised and Cluys Epton Maquoketa motorcycle policeman, is suffering from a broken collar bone as the result of an auto accident which happened at 2:30 Sunday morning about five miles south of here.

The three young men were returning from Delmar, near here, when the accident happened. They had engaged in a race it is said, with the Eptons, taxi driver who had driven to Delmar to get the Sunday papers. Shortly after leaving Delmar, Ellis who was driving, apparently lost control of the machine and it turned over twice, throwing out the occupants and wrecking the car. Dale Tubbs was thrown through the top of the car and was picked up in an unconscious condition. Ellis and Epton were thrown to the side of the road. When returning from Delmar, Mr. Eggers found the young men lying unconscious by the side of the road and took them to the local hospital.

The body of the Studebaker car was wrecked and only the chassis remains. Ellis purchased the car six weeks ago.

live up to his promise. It was also revealed that a difference in opinion between the two had not helped matters. But she thinks I'm downtown hanging around a pool hall instead of hunting for a job."

McKee promised he would not attempt to kill himself again and after the car was cleared a reconciliation was effected and they left the station together with advice ringing in their ears on the necessity of tolerance and harmony in married life.

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE TOOTHACHE.

One morning, before the school bell had played its early ding-dong song, Mrs. Longears saw Uncle Wiggily hopping around the hollow stump bungalow with a strong piece of string in one paw.

"What are you going to do, my dear?" she asked her new husband. "Are you going to jump rope with Jingle and Jangle?"

"No, I am going to tie this cord to Wiggily's aching tooth and pull it out so it won't hurt any more," answered Mr. Longears.

"Mrs. Longears, doubtful like."

"After quite a bit of talk he did," answered the rabbit gentleman with a laugh. "At first he was afraid it would hurt, but I told him the pain would be very little and would be over in a second. So he told me to come in and get the string and pull his tooth. He is out in the yard waiting for me."

"Here I come!" cried Uncle Wiggily.

"Wiggily is braver than I thought he was," said the mother rabbit. "But be careful, Uncle Wiggily, not to pull his sister Weezie's tooth by mistake. You know my little twin rabbit boy and girl look so much alike that sometimes I can't tell them apart."

"Oh, I can easily tell Weezie from Wiggily," chuckled Mr. Longears. "Weezie wears dresses and Wiggily has on knickerbockers. I'll go out now and pull Wiggily's aching tooth and then he can hop along to school."

So the rabbit gentleman hopped out in the yard where the clover grew deep and thick, and there he saw a little rabbit child sitting on a round stone.

"There's my brave little Wiggily!" cried Uncle Wiggily in a jolly voice. "There's Wiggily sitting on a stone, just as if it were a chair. In the Dentist Bear's office, waiting to have his aching tooth pulled. And I'm going to be the dentist, and pull it!"

Holding his string ready, Uncle Wiggily hopped to the little rabbit child, whose back was turned toward the bunny gentleman.

"Here I come!" cried Uncle Wiggily gaily—that is as gaily as one can speak about a toothache. "Here I come! Open your mouth real wide now, Wiggily, and I'll soon have that tooth out."

The rabbit child's mouth was open. Uncle Wiggily was about to put the loop of the string around a tooth, when, looking a second time into the open mouth, the little Wiggily could see no loose tooth. All the teeth were white and sound. None had a hole in.

"Why! Why!" exclaimed the rabbit daddy uncle. "Why isn't your aching tooth, Wiggily? Then the bunny looked more closely and he saw that it wasn't the little boy rabbit at all, but Weezie, his sister. She was on a post, with Wiggily's knickerbockers and looked just like her brother. "Why, Weezie! What does this mean?" cried Uncle Wiggily. "I nearly pulled one of your teeth in mistake!"

"I'm glad you didn't speak Weezie, wiggling off the stone. "Wiggily got frightened, after thinking about having his tooth pulled, and he gave me five cents out of his bank to dress up like him and take his place. He said he'd give me five more after you pulled one of my teeth instead of his. But I'm glad you didn't have any toothache."

"The idea! What a shame it would have been if I had pulled one of your good teeth in mistake!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "There he goes!" cried Weezie, pointing to her brother, who was running across the garden wearing his sister's dress. And this dress got him into trouble and out again. He's not knowing how to run in a girl's skirt. "Wiggily found his legs tangled. He fell down, bumped his mouth hard on the ground and when he arose, "weezie," he cried.

"Oh, look! Look! When I tell I knocked out my aching tooth and now you don't have to pull it, Daddy!" And, surely enough, that's just what happened. Uncle Wiggily laughed a little and then told Weezie he must not be a coward and fear to have a tooth pulled and the little rabbit chap said he never would act that way again. And he didn't.

"But, anyhow," he said, "I'm glad my tooth got knocked out so you didn't have the trouble of pulling it, Daddy!" And if the red robin
